Reeves & Partner approved as member in PDF/A Competence Center

December 21, 2007 (Oberweningen, Switzerland) - Roger Reeves has been approved as a member of the international PDF/A Competence Center by the executive committee. The Center promotes the use of ISO 19005 (PDF/A) for the long-term archiving of documents in electronic format. Reeves is no stranger to the PDF/A format or the Competence Center, having helped establish the organization in 2006 and working together with it since then.

A history of involvement with PDF/A and the PDF/A Competence Center

PDF/A is the ISO standard format for the long-term archiving of electronic documents (ISO 19005). The standard was published in September 2005 and describes a file format (PDF/A), based on PDF 1.4, which guarantees the correct reproducibility of documents for the long-term. In December 2005, the PDF/A Competence Center was first founded by LuraTech Europe GmbH and PDF Tools AG. Roger Reeves was involved in the initial activities as an employee of PDF Tools, and organized PDF/A seminars in Germany and Switzerland. After the Competence Center became an official association in September 2006, Reeves helped design the website, and he continues to provide consulting services to the Competence Center today. He was also booth manager for the PDF/A Competence Center pavilion at the CeBIT 2007 in Hannover, and held a daily presentation on PDF/A workflow at the PDF/A Forum during the DMS 2007 Exposition in Cologne, Germany.
